

Resilience in Action: The TAG Medical Way

As we reflect on the third quarter of 2024, we are proud to share and reiterate our unwavering commitment to our customers, partners, and employees. Despite the challenges faced globally and in our region, we continue to stand strong, delivering on our promises and innovating for the future.

The TAG Family: Our Secret Sauce

Recently, we gathered to celebrate the Jewish New Year, an event that reminded us all of the resilience that lies at the heart of TAG Medical. Our team's commitment is unwavering, with many employees voluntarily postponing their time off to ensure we meet our customer obligations. This spirit of dedication is what sets TAG apart.

Ensuring Uninterrupted Supply

We're pleased to announce that our rapid response to the events of October 7, 2023, and strategic planning, have paid off. In August, we ensured we had our foot on the ground in the United States with our warehouse in New Jersey. This facility maintains a three-month advanced safety stock, ensuring our ability to fulfill orders promptly regardless of external circumstances – be it hurricanes, snowstorms, or the ongoing situation in Israel.

Continuing to Deliver on Our Commitments

TAG Medical has successfully closed Q3 having met all order commitments.

Furthermore, we've taken proactive steps by delivering October and November orders early to all our customers. This achievement underscores our dedication to our partners and our ability to adapt and excel even in challenging times.

What Makes TAG Unique

For over three decades, TAG Medical has been more than just a supplier to our customers – we've been a trusted partner. Our ability to fast-track new product development at lightning speed, coupled with unbeatable prices, agility, and uncompromising quality, continues to set us apart in the industry. These long-standing relationships, some spanning 30 years, have weathered many storms, and we're committed to continuing this journey together.

Looking Ahead

As we move forward, TAG Medical remains focused on our mission: to develop and produce state-of-the-art surgical devices that improve procedures and transform lives.

Our values of innovation, reliability, and customer-centricity continue to guide every decision we make.

To our valued customers: Your trust in TAG Medical during these times reinforces our resolve. We are here, stronger than ever, ready to meet your needs and exceed your expectations. Together, we will continue to innovate, grow, and shape the future of medical technology.
